

Dear Parent/Carer,

Hartburn Primary School is now launching a school twitter account. The school’s account will be used to post messages and photographs to celebrate children’s achievements, show events happening around the school and communicate messages to parents and carers. We strongly believe that a school Twitter account will be a really positive addition to school life at Hartburn.

The account will be used by authorised members of staff only and a strict policy will be followed to ensure the safety of children’s personal information online. This policy is in line with the school’s rules to ensure responsible use of computers and the internet and also follows the same procedures that we use for publishing information on the school website.

If you would like to follow the Hartburn School Twitter account, please send a follower request to @hartburnschool and complete and return the slip below. We will only accept followers who are over the age of 18 and are parents and carers of children who attend Hartburn Primary School. It is at the account administrator’s discretion to accept or decline followers.

If you do not wish your child to be in a photograph that may be published on Hartburn School’s Twitter account, please contact the school directly.

The staff at Hartburn Primary School are excited about the obvious benefits a school Twitter account will bring to our school community. If you have any questions about the school’s Twitter account, or its use, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Yours sincerely,

Mrs K Anderson
